

Labyrinth 9917

Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) Peloponnese

A one-of-a-kind wine that is made from sequent vintages of the Megas Oenos label that mature together in a special foudre (barrique). It is intricately complex, with an evolving bouquet, and a well-structured, full-bodied mouth, with mature velvet tannins and a long, round, most elegant finish.

Technical Presentation: Labyrinth 9915

Category	Red
Classification	Protected Geographical Indication (PGI) Peloponnese
Grape Varieties	Agiorgitiko 80% Cabernet Sauvignon 20%
Vineyards	Agiorgitiko: Gimno in Nemea at a 2,132 ft (700 m) altitude Cabernet Sauvignon: Corinthia at a 2,132 ft (700 m) altitude
Main type of soil	Rocky
Age of vines (average)	Agiorgitiko: 32-68 years Cabernet Sauvignon: 40 years
Yields	Agiorgitiko: 22,5 hl/ha Cabernet Sauvignon: 25 hl/ha
Harvest dates	Middle of September
Vinification/Maturation	In a foudre of 1,000 litres, sequent vintages of Megas Oenos mature together. In 2001, this foudre was filled for the first time with the final blend of Megas Oenos 1999. Since then, every year, and after the final blend of the latest Megas Oenos vintage comes on the market, a specific amount of the wine in the foudre is taken away and bottled and the barrique is filled with new Megas Oenos. The wine matures in the foudre until the next vintage of Megas Oenos –which itself matures in new French barriques for 18 months– is bottled. Labyrinth matures for a further 12 months in bottle in our cellar before it gets released.

CONTINUED TO THE NEXT PAGE >

Technical Presentation: Labyrinth 9915

Alcohol by volume	14.5%
Total acidity (tartaric acid)	6.95 g/l
pH	3.35
Tasting notes	The colour is deep purple with some terracotta hues. On the nose it is mature, concentrated, dense, and with immense complexity. Aromas are focused on ripe red fruits (morello cherries, blackberries and cherries) along with spicy characteristics such as clove, cinnamon and black pepper. Hints of herbal aromas and cedar are revealed. On the mouth it is full-bodied, smooth and silky, with well-structured tannins and vivid acidity: so mature and yet so young. Flavours are consistent with the aromas and become even more dominant. The aftertaste is elegant, powerful, exquisitely complex, and seems to go on forever.

ΛΑΒΥΡΙΝΘΟΣ
LABYRINTH

MEGAS
OENOS
ΣΚΟΥΡΑΣ
DOMAINE SKOURAS